

A Spark Re-formed

by TheLimeManager1

Category: Star Wars Rebels

Genre: Romance, Sci-Fi

Language: English

Characters: Ezra B.

Status: In-Progress

Published: 2016-04-12 11:16:21

Updated: 2016-04-12 11:16:21

Packaged: 2016-04-27 18:18:28

Rating: M

Chapters: 1

Words: 269

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: Ezra and Leia have feelings for each other, can they embrace them? Or avoid them in fear?

A Spark Re-formed

"Maybe he could use a friend." Kanan said. Leia nodded and walked up to Ezra.

"I know who you are." Leia said, Ezra looked back. "You're Ezra Bridger, I heard your transmission."

"Yeah, my parents heard it too, but they're gone now."

"I'm sorry." The Princess comforted.

"Do you ever wonder?-" Ezra asked before Leia finished his sentence before he could.

"If this fight is even worth it? All the time. But I'm still here."

"But you're a princess, you don't have to risk your life doing this." Ezra said, looking back.

"I feel like, because I can fight, I have to for the people who cannot. And I think you might be the same way." Leia said.

Ezra looked back and realized that him and the princess had many similarities, and smiled at her.

Leia walked up at Ezra and looked into his eyes, placing her hand on his knee, and taking his other hand in her other hand.

Ezra looked down at Leia's hands and looked up into her eyes with a confused look.

Just then Leia retracted her hand from his and slid it around his neck, pulling him down into a kiss.

Ezra was shocked but let it happen, he'd wanted this to happen, but he knew that the princess wouldn't be staying, so he tried to bury his feelings.

Then, a Twi'Lek walked down the corridor to their gun-emplacement, with a grin covering her face as soon as she saw Ezra's and Leia's lips connected.

"Am I interrupting something?"

I reckon that this'll only be a one shot unless people want a two shot.

End
file.